

Our Families Come First

Lansing is facing a health care access crisis.

Our friends, family members and kids are sitting in emergency rooms for multiple days waiting to get the help they need. University of Michigan Health-Sparrow has a responsibility—and a plan—to improve access for our neighbors in need through the construction of a new, 120-bed behavioral health facility adjacent to our extended campus, which includes the former Eastern High School. Expanded access to this care will save lives.

OUR EVOLVING CAMPUS

We understand that many feel a connection to EHS, and we will continue to work with the community to honor its legacy as we evolve the UM Health-Sparrow campus to offer these and other lifesaving services long into the future. Beyond behavioral health, we are also exploring opportunities to address other urgent needs through our extended campus, including:

Better access to cancer care

Solutions to challenges and overcrowding in our emergency department

Enhancements in our mother-baby facilities

More convenient surgical care

As we move forward and prepare to present our plans to the University of Michigan Board of Regents this fall, UM Health-Sparrow will continue to be guided by our mission to improve the health of the Mid-Michigan region by providing quality, compassionate care to everyone, every time and the belief that our neighbors—our friends, our family members, our kids—come first, always.
